CAMP EAGLE SAFETY

Your Campers' safety is our highest priority here at Camp Eagle. Of course, we want them to have fun, build Friendships, and meet God, but safety comes first!

First Aid

We have multiple Wilderness First Responders, certified by a national training organization, on staff to respond to emergencies, as well as an on-call physician for consults.

The Medical Station is crewed 24/7 by our Wilderness First Responders.

Our summer staff goes through extensive training before camp begins. During this time, many of our staff are trained as lifeguards, which includes CPR/First Aid/AED and go through extensive training on our high elements and activities.

Child Protection Policy

PACKING TIPS

Pack With Your Camper

Packing with your child is an excellent opportunity to build excitement about camp and to talk about any anxieties or concerns your camper may have about their upcoming camp experience.

Plus, you can make sure they pack everything that they need to bring and leave at home the stuff that should stay at home.

Use The “What to Pack” Checklist

Use the checklist when you pack. Once you are all packed, tuck the checklist in your camper’s luggage and instruct them to use it when they pack their stuff up at the end of the week. That way, they have a way to make sure they’ve got everything they came with and are leaving nothing behind.

What To Pack Your Stuff In

Pack your camper’s stuff so you can carry it a short distance to their cabin or yurt. Storage space in the cabins and yurts is limited. Pack all your items in a hard trunk or plastic container (anything taller than 15 inches will not fit under the beds). Regular suitcases are not preferred because they are difficult to clean.

Label Everything

Use a permanent marker to put your camper’s first and last name on everything, even your camper’s luggage.

If your camper loses something, it may turn up in lost and found. Unclaimed items are disposed of or donated to charity two weeks after your camper’s session ends.

Pack Appropriate Attire For Camp

Pack clothing that is comfortable in hot weather, suitable for outdoor play, and has the potential to get wet and dirty. Campers should not pack suggestive or revealing outfits or articles of clothing that promote alcohol, tobacco, drug use, sexual behavior, or contain inappropriate language.

A Note About Swimsuits

We expect all guests and staff to dress modestly while at camp. You should always be covered by lifejacket, modest swimwear, and/or clothing unless in a private changing or shower area. Example 1: While swimming, everyone must wear a lifejacket and modest swimwear. Example 2: When removing a lifejacket, everyone must put on clothing immediately afterwards.

If You Are Bringing Medications to Camp

All medications (prescription, non-prescription, and over-the-counter) remain with and are dispensed by our Medical Staff. Please pack your medications separately from your luggage in the original prescription bottles labeled with your camper’s information so that you can easily access them and turn them in to the Medical Staff during Check-In.

PREPARING FOR CAMP

6 Things You Can Do to Help Your Camper Succeed At Camp

1. Discuss the camp's policies with your camper beforehand. Make sure your camper understands what the policies are and that they need to honor them.
2. Acknowledge your camper's concerns positively. Let them know that you understand that they might be anxious, unsure, or nervous and that it is okay to feel that way. Resist the temptation to "rescue" your child from homesickness. Acknowledge in a positive way that you will miss your camper and that you are confident they will be able to complete the camp session.
3. Pack together with your camper. Pack things with your camper that they will be comfortable wearing. Pack a flashlight with lots of extra batteries. Pack a favorite stuffed animal or storybook for bedtime. Use the packing list included in this parent packet.
4. Let your camper know that the camp staff is there to help them. Make sure they understand that they should let their counselor know if they have a problem.
5. Prepare your camper for spending time away from home at camp. Visit the website with your camper and look at the pictures. Encourage your camper to ask questions about camp. Practice being away from home overnight. Have a sleep-out in the backyard or at a friend's house.
6. Build general excitement about the week by regularly talking about it and telling friends and family about the exciting week your son or daughter has ahead of them this summer! Speak of it as though it is an accomplishment.

Avoid Doing These 5 Things That Set Your Camper Up For Failure

1. Avoid making deals or bribes. For example, avoid saying, "If you don't like it, Mommy will come and pick you up," or "If you stay at camp, Daddy will get you a new bike when you come home."
2. Avoid statements or actions that conflict with camp policies. Avoid saying things like "If you get homesick, you can call me" when camp has a policy that does not permit campers to call home or allowing your child to pack a digital music player, e-reader, or cell phone when the packing list says to leave it at home.
3. Avoid sending your camper to camp during a disruptive home situation. For example, in cases where a Grandparent died last week or parents just got divorced, it's best to give your camper time to adjust. Check with us to see if it's possible to switch to a session later in the summer.
4. Avoid keeping helpful information from camp staff about your camper. For example, not letting staff know your camper is prone to bedwetting is counterproductive. By providing our staff with as much information as possible, you help us help your camper. Having information ahead of time saves us from "troubleshooting" a puzzling situation in search of a solution. Instead, we can be proactive.
5. Avoid taking your camper off prescription medications for their week at camp. Camp is a less structured environment than your child may be used to at school. Children are more active and stay up later at camp; if your camper requires medication while at home under normal circumstances, it is beneficial for your camper to continue to use the regularly prescribed medication.

You will have 2 options, to donate the remaining balance, or get a refund if balance is over $5. to refund.

Roommates must be the same gender, be no more than two age grades apart, and roommates must request each other. You can request roommates here under the "Roommate Request" section.

Camp Photos

We know that you want to see your camper having the most amazing week of their life. We have a new photo system where you will easily be able to find pictures of your camper!! We send out these links to your email on the first day of camp!

MAIL & PACKAGES

Campers LOVE to get mail!

The best way to ensure timely delivery is to leave it with us when you drop off your camper. We will deliver mail collected at Check-In throughout the week at lunch. Things to consider when packing care packages for your camper.

- Keep them small - No larger than 12" x 15" x 3/4". With the number of campers and staff we have at Camp Eagle each week storage for big boxes can be an issue.
- Please, no food or candy - Food and candy can attract unwanted insects and critters and can also create challenging situations, especially if other campers have specific food allergies.

Camper Mail

We encourage you to "pre-write" your cards and letters and drop them off with us on Check-In day. However, if you would like to send your camper mail, please make sure to send it well in advance (at least a week)

Sending a Package

If you choose to mail a package rather than leave it during registration, Please send it well in advance of your camper's week at camp (at least a week). All packages must be shipped via UPS.

Send Online Camper Mail!

If you want to send messages to your camper, you can purchase a Camper Mail package to send your camper personalized messages during their time at camp. The one-way email service will be active the day your camper arrives at camp. Messages are delivered every day at lunch. You can purchase an unlimited Camper Mail package for $10 on your online account.

If you are dropping off campers at multiple campuses, please drop off your Headwaters Camper first.

Once checked in and at your proper campus, our staff can assist you with your luggage and help you find your cabin or Yurt. After getting your camper settled and taking a few moments to meet the counselors and new friends, be sure to give a big embarrassing kiss good-bye before heading out.

PAYMENT & REFUND POLICY

- Payment made for a registered camper, whether set up on a monthly payment plan, three equal payments, or paid in full, will only be refunded a percentage of the total amount due for the registered camp.
- The percentage refund will be based on the number of months between registration and the camp's start date. You will only be refunded a percentage of your paid amount based on how many months you have left before the camp's start date and the total cost of the camp.

For example: if you sign up for camp eight months before its start date and pay in full the amount of $450, then decide to cancel your registration three months before camp starts, your $450 total for camp will be divided by your six months of reservation, making each month equal $75 of the $450 total. Since you had waited five of the eight months to decide to cancel, those five months will not be refunded; only the three months left before camp will be refunded in the amount of $225 (3x75)

- Our cancellation policy is based on payments made on the monthly payment plan. If you signed up for the monthly payment plan, all payments are non-refundable.

For example: if you paid in full 6 months before the final payment due date and cancel three months later, you would be refunded half of the amount paid (3 months' worth).
